THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION

1. A large structure, allegedly to be used as a new MVD headquarters, was in the process of construction in East Berlin, Pankow, Prenzlauer Allee 63, in early September 1954. The work was being done by VEB Bau, the nationalized construction firm which was in charge of the Stalin Allee project. 25X1
2. A German [redacted] [redacted] was able to find employment on the new structure after passing a most stringent security check, which included a two-hour interview with two Soviet officials in the Soviet Compound at Karlshorst. [redacted]
[redacted]
3. A special pass was issued to Germans who were employed to work on the new MVD building. The pass is a one-page, dark brown document, to which a picture of the bearer is affixed. The pass was printed in Russian and bore a few words in writing. The size was approximately that of a German postcard. 25X1
4. The building was nearing completion quickly, as three shifts of workers labored on it on an around-the-clock schedule. It was not known whether the building was a new construction or whether a used building was being reconstructed. 25X1
5. The construction office was temporarily located in a school building on Schoenhauser Allee and was under the direction of Klima (fnu), a German. 25X1
6. The building was being constructed under the East German Ministry of the Interior, Secretary of State for State Security, Section for House-keeping and Administration.
